

Little Bear 2017

Therefore this is a little story.

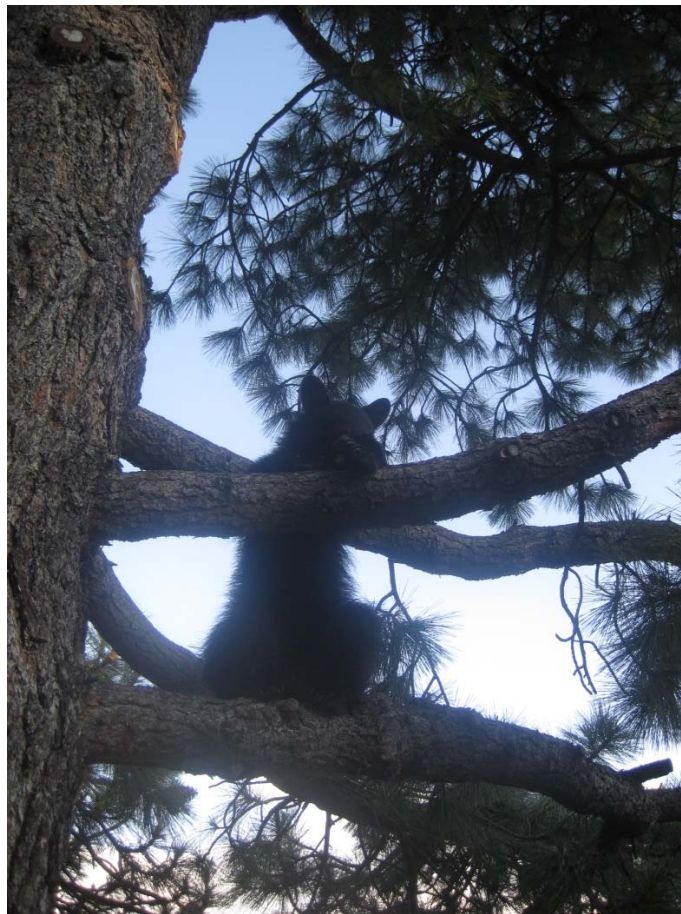

My security guard (German shepherd Heidi) and I came back from shopping at Safeway on July 6th, 2017, getting fresh air on our private deck, when we saw a little bear hanging on our pine tree, feeling very comfortable talking to me.

He moved over, hanging from a branch and telling me a long story how he was kicked out by his mother, who took such good care of him, to become now independent and courageous by himself.

Heidi standing behind me was wagging her tail enjoying our interesting conversation.

Getting so comfortable, the little bear came down, looking behind us where the door was open to our inviting living room, thinking of staying with us.

As he approached us, he tipped over my flower pot where I was growing chive. When I told him that was not such a good idea, he got very embarrassed; bears really do not want to make mistakes. So he somersaulted over the fence and went down to the Lake.

The next day a guest called to report: there was a little bear walking up the stairs from the Lake and going over the parking lot. I comforted him telling we know this little bear, his name is Hansi and he is allowed to do that.

THE END